Wilson May Meet McTigue For Title in Montreal Ring

Joe Jacobs Announces Middleweights Will Battle in Canadian Metropolis on March 17; Pioneer Club Holds Interest of Local Fans This Week

Joe Jacobs announces in a somewhat naive manner that Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion of the world, will meet Mike McTigue in a battle for the title at Montreal on March 17. This bout, should it occur, will occupy the undivided interest of the boxing world, for the simple reason that the boxing world has a peculiar desire to see Wilson dethroned under the most decisive circumstances possible.

some title.

If this announcement came from Martin Killilea, instead of Joe Jacobs, who lends a Maxfield Parrish color to the most indefinite dream, it would make a better story. Martin is Wil-make a better story. Martin is Wilson's manager, and he, in the nature of things, has the best information as to whom Johnny will meet.

Among New Yorkers there persists the well-defined impression that Wilson has gone into some sort of disgulsed retirement in which he is pretending to be active, but really isn't. The fact remains, however, that Canada has not barred Wilson and Mechanism and he had not been also be a subject to take a matter seriously, will be Tarzan's opponent. Fairbanks in Benjamin's Corner Dan McKetrick livens up a somewhat flably week with a snanny announce.

By Jack Lawrence

This announcement, if any seriousness can be attached to it, is the best news of the day. Mike McTigue is likely to do that which Wilson knew Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, would certainly do if he mixed with him in the proposed and much discussed bout at Madison Square Garden. Which is a way of intimating that Mike would relieve Johnny of his singularly trouble-
